

Jarrold Morris is a Country/Americana songwriter that writes about his authentic life experiences, making his music relevant and relatable to his listeners. Writing is at the core of Jarrod's music. He believes when you write a song, you have a deeper connection to the music itself. As he says, "Something very special happens there." Jarrod doesn't want to be pigeonholed into any one genre. His music is anything he likes to play with a nice melody and an original hook. No fluff— just raw and real, with a little grit.
